

VOLUME 15

CARL SANDBURG HIGH SCHOOL

1968

We dedicate this volume to the Missionary from Beyond who came to Orpa, the land of stagnant thoughts and unchallenged ideas, to release us from the invisible chains and shackles which bound us. We were reluctant to be unbound, though, afraid to try the unproven, to blaze our own trails. We dedicate this book to Martin Suchor.

SYNCHRONIZED

VALENTINE'S DANCE

The Seniors commemorated their last year with the traditional Sweethearts Ball. Loving couples, infected with the spirit of St. Valentines Day, passed through a crepe tunnel of love and swung to the sound of the Dantes. Silhouettes kissed on the wall and tiny cupids passed out candy and struck couples with invisible bows and arrows under the psychedelic lights. Queen Suzie's sovereignty was proclaimed with an armful of rosebuds as she reigned alongside of King Tinker.

- 1 Your tie is cricked
- 2 Queen Suzy O'Connor and King Tinker Lissen
- 3 Well how would you look with a tree in your face
- 4 The latest thing
- 5 Dancing makes you thirsty
- 6 Are you two lost?

SYNCRONIZED SWIMMING

A soft, peaceful feeling pervades the pool its water silent, its lights dim. The audience drips in, the announcer speaks, and silhouettes glide in. They don't swim. They dance with the water, so friendly, so helpful to them. The audience catches its breath as the girls submerge and stay under, and stay, and stay 'til they seem to have gills. A silent gasp and a smile. Lights brighten, music lightens, programs rustle, and girls dance and plunge to the "In-Scents" — action to "Ambush" — grace and romance to "Intimate," and an Oriental flavor with "Kiku." This for the audience, the show looks different behind the scenes — leotards, bathing caps, costumes, suits, girls — excited, comparing notes, laughing, scared, worried, and sad the show is a memory.

COMPUTER DANCE

Who'd you get?" became the standard salutation; and with a shrug, or a grin, or a grimace, a list was produced the result of a computer's matching up "ideal" dates.

Which do you prefer: a) a thunderstorm b) a windy day or c) a still, warm day? What color hair should your ideal date have? Do you consider yourself impulsive or inhibited? Thrifty or extravagant? Seemingly, there is something more than punch and sort, program and file to getting together a good pair-or perhaps, it was just that for a dollar computers aren't too picky for few romances had their beginnings with Univac. Though it didn't mean too much, it was fun to see who got who.

The house lights dim. The restless crowd shifts no longer. An expectant hush settles throughout the barn-like gymnasium as the curtains open.

"Don't touch me," David (Rvan Armbruster) shouts to his over-protective mother, Lyn DeBacher). At a school for special children, David disdains all but the kind Doctor Swinford (Chuck Jaegar) and Muriel-Lisa, a girl, a pearl of a girl.

On stage the actors feel clammy, stifled. Strange, disjointed thoughts flash into their minds: is that person in the third row? How hot it is up here. Can they hear me? Mr Steinhardt said to project, I can't go on. But they do. The audience reacts with chuckles . . . and sobs. The final scene—the crincher—Lisa . . . Lisa, you're not rhyming! Lisa take my hand!" The curtains close.

HONORS NIGHT

Anticipation and hope. Four years of study, at service and of character were rewarded with pins, eulogies, and money, the awards sadly obscuring the qualities for some. Suspense and boredom: The speeches and names of scholarships and service awards resounded in the clammy warmth of the gym. Up to the stage clapping down again. Joy and hurt. The Magnificent Ten-Terry Colburn, Debbie Davidson, Lynn DeBacher, Shirley Dwyer, Jill Gifford, Gretchen Merwin, Gary Merz, Ann Paschal, Cindy Pavlak, and Chris West. Outstanding seniors were Gretchen Merwin and Gary Merz, and the quietly excellent Gretchen returned to receive the Andrew Corporation Scholarship. Pride and disappointment.

PROM

- ↓ He was here a minute ago
- ↑ The start of a wild night
- ↑ Queen for a night
- ↑ Oh my gosh! It's a photographer
- ↑ I don't like the way those little black things look around in there

"Love Is Blue" was a marvelous theme. Its strains capture all the poignancy, all the delicate loveliness, and mixture of emotions that one should feel at a prom. For many, our prom was all this; a romantic fantasy, a fairytale end to their stay at Sandburg. For many others it was not quite up to expectations. For them it was too costly or stiff to be really enjoyed and the broken ice punch bowl will stand out in their minds. People glided around familiar surroundings with familiar companions, but somehow transformed. How elegant, how docile, and how adult these normally casual, rowdy adolescents seemed to have become. Their suppressed personalities have to be left out, however at the traditional day after, a picnic at the dunes or a lake or a park

GRADUATION

Hot sunlight streamed down on rows of mortar-boarded heads the day they said good-bye to Sandburg, to a stage, to a shelter to a springboard. The strains of Pomp and Circumstance evoked involuntary sentiment - familiar faces in the halls, that last sock hop, a teacher who showed genuine concern, forged passes, and football games- on this day that was supposed to be so pleasant. A long march around the school and into their seats, an invocation, the pledge, a welcome by Russell Novak, the address by Corrinne Kirby, the class presentation, and then, name after name as each senior went to receive his milestone, after which Paula Ferrin gave the farewell. With a sigh of relief, or nostalgia, high school is finished for the Class of '68.

- 1 and new time in the new world
- 2 a great deal of the people who had been in the
- 3 the new and the old world
- 4 There is a whole lot of the new world in the old
- 5 Dear friends we are here here today
- 6 My dear Americans are here today
- 7 Who does the new world know
- 8 Let us go on and on and on
- 9 Now let me say a word to all of you

FALL PLAY

It's the little things one misses. In at least two plays, Mrs. VanDan (Mary Habach) in the play "Anne Frank." Despite war, prejudice, and starvation, Anne Frank lived. But she lost her beloved father. The Anne Frank Museum in Amsterdam meant a loss of friends, freedom, and the clear blue sky. Her diary reveals her loneliness and maturing personality. It tells of hardship, hunger, and fear. She reveals a group of people determined to not only survive, but to live. Though it seems pointless, Mr. Frank (Brenda) and his colleagues, tutor Anne and Margo (Jody Huckel). Anne and Peter become a little more than friends, and Mr. and Mrs. VanDan maintain their petty arguing. Life goes on right up to the brutal end.

BON-

The following table shows the results of the basketball games played by the team during the season. The team's record was 10 wins and 12 losses. The team's leading scorer was [Name], who averaged 15.5 points per game. The team's leading rebounder was [Name], who averaged 8.5 rebounds per game. The team's leading assist man was [Name], who averaged 4.5 assists per game. The team's leading steals man was [Name], who averaged 2.5 steals per game. The team's leading blocks man was [Name], who averaged 1.5 blocks per game.

There was a lightness, a buoyancy left over from summer, enthusiasm not yet dissipated on busy work and on endless days of endless hours of school. There was excitement and confidence and delight in The Team That Never Lost. The images are vibrant – that brisk football-autumn weather, evenings laughing and cheering under a ring of lights beneath crystal nights, teeth chattering, Wednesday night pep rallies, confetti fluttering

In the midst of that kind of a season came Homecoming week: The frantic wood hunt on bonfire evening, and then the bonfire itself, its hungry golden fingers engulfed by a balmy night, Baldy Blue day; and a restless Bermuda day and then, suddenly it was Saturday

Saturday, and a line of mediocre floats preceded smiling April and her chilled court around the field. The Eagles massacred the Braves while finishing touches were put on the gym

The dance was a victory stomp in blue and gold-the grand finale of the week, the climax of the season. The Spirit of '68 was last seen dancing to the sound of the Trolls under billowing, bubbling parachute-clouds-and it disappeared, like a good Spirit, when the last couple left the gym visions of sugar plums may dance in the heads of children at Christmas time, but in the heads of high school girls dance visions of themselves radiating in elegant velvet dresses for a romantic evening in this respect.

A Christmas Carol was a dream come true for the girls who with Snowflakes at night whirled and danced and then gathered in the Old English Town on the quiet streets of town square. While many danced under the blizzard others retreated to the warmth of Ye Olde Pub for refreshment. God Bless everyone, said Tiny Tim.

The following are the names of the students who received awards at the Spring Sports Banquet. The awards were presented by the faculty and the students. The awards were presented to the students who had been selected by the faculty and the students. The awards were presented to the students who had been selected by the faculty and the students.

All the boys who ate their Wheaties, and sacrificed their leisure time for grueling hours of practice, and who got plenty of rest, and who never drank or smoked (of course) and who fought their hearts out against their opponents were rewarded at the banquet. Stars- blue, red, gold, silver, and green, letters, plaques in front of proud and doting relatives. The real rewards, more important and intangible were probably the applause and the admiration and the inner challenge the boys experienced on the field or in the gym or within themselves. After the cafeteria style banquet, the athletes, looking strangely distinguished in suits and ties, marched to receive their laurels. The Bob Jones Award went to Chuck Jaeger, and Bill Devine was named as the "Most Valuable Player."

SPRING SPORTS BANQUET

A real golfer's zeal for his game is something like that of a compulsive gambler toward the races, a little like that of an avid Bears fan on Sunday Afternoons. It is consuming, taking hold of the golfer, making him do silly things like playing golf on Sundays, and like putting or driving in his freetime. Golfers swear by golf (Best game on earth), play it (in rain or sleet or under scorching rays), and it can make them (Yeah, shot 3 under) or break them (that d___ water trap). Golf is funny that way and so are golfers. But you can kind of understand them, understand the kind of satisfaction they get in the steely control and absolute form of a perfect swing, in the sight of that little white ball in their command, rising gently and falling toward that little red flag. You can't blame them for wanting to be out in the open green of the course, for wanting nothing more than a few strikes to occupy their anxieties. You just can't blame them at all

To many people tennis consists of an occasional stroll to a court and wacking a white ball over the waist high net. For the Girl's P.E. classes tennis is running out to the new courts for two or three weeks and practising serves and hopefully, playing a game. But to the Sandburg tennis team, it is more. Not only does a player practise everyday after day, but he plays during the summer and tries to keep in shape for the next season. For some players like Rod Schroeder, all the conditioning pays off. Rod lead the team to many victories and went to the state tournaments in Champaign with Coach Henson. But the teamwork is what counts. Others on the team worked just as hard perhaps harder . . . Next time that furry ball glides over a net, remember the work involved

TRACK

Track is a team of individuals. Except for the relay runners, each track man competes alone. For the runners, competing means a long, short race. Long in endurance, pounding pressure of feet, breathing. Short in time Hurdling is all of running plus more. Like jack rabbits, hurdlers hop over hurdles in split-second instants, barely up and already down. They run over hurdles, remembering form at first, later only breathing and running, running and jumping. High jumping is different. When a hurdler hops he is down before he is up. When a jumper jumps there is the leap, the crossing of the bar, the sinking to the foam, and the impact. There is a floating, flying feeling. It lasts about a second. Shot putters and discus throwers are unique track men. They are stationary competitors, projecting foreign objects rather than their bodies. But the strain and tension are still there. Track men are individuals.

It's hot out there under the sun, and there aren't often many spectators at the baseball games. Kids play it for fun, but they don't put in the long hours and grinding drills of the team. It's hot just sitting, just waiting in the field. A fly buzzes and it seems the sun will never move an inch in the sky. A bead of sweat trickles down your neck, then suddenly there's a ball—it's a fly coming your way. You run, run fast. You catch and throw it—snap it out. Double play. Good deal. Then comes the heat again, and the stifling dust. But it is better now. Next time a play comes, you will react quicker, instantaneously. The dugout is a relief from the sun, but's better to be out in the sun then, on base. Baseball is batting, running, throwing and heat. Balls slide, curve or whiz by and innings follow suit

FOOTBALL

Aachi-baabaa- HEY HEY Kimo-sabi: HEY HEY Sandburg Eagles: HEY HEY Are the greatest HEY HEY. And they were first in Area, fourth in Chicago-land, and fifth in State. Coaches Devine, Tomasula, and Jensen led the flock of many All-Conferencers (Jim Donnelly, Bill Bartolotta, Chuck Singleton, Matt Pernal, Bob Werner), and a couple of All-Staters (Tom Devine and Mike Navarro) into a fantastic and unprecedented 8-0 season.

The seniors on the squad ended their high school football careers with a remarkable and unblemished record of 31-0-1, outscoring their opponents 270-45. In the grand finale the Eagles shipped Oak Lawn 62-0 and Navarro broke two of All-American Ernie Sharpe's records by carrying the ball 220 times for a total of 1155 yards. WE like our team. We LIKE our team. We like OUR team. We like our TEAM.

A few minutes of easy jogging 'til coach calls and he trots over, rubs his bare feet in the earth. Behind the line and the whistle blows. He's off, not too fast, pacing himself for the next two and a half miles. His whole body moves to the rhythm of his legs- left, then right, left, then right, on and on, keep it up, left then right. Ten long minutes and the finish line begins to loom large in his mind. Only one guy in front of him now, a little speed, and they're neck and neck. He strains for a burst of speed and breaks ahead nearly sprinting the last 100 yards and bursting through the gate to the tune of 12:55 and the "1" stick is thrust into his hands. He gasps for air and trots slowly to calm his throbbing heart and regain his breath. A teammate shouts "We won" and a smile spreads over his red, beaded face as he glances at "1" on the stick.

At one time or another, each wrestler is tired, hungry, thirsty, and just plain physically fatigued. Upon arriving at school in the morning, a wrestler usually checks his weight, determining whether he can eat lunch or not. In anticipation of a desirable result, each wrestler jumps on the scale, lets all of the air out of his lungs, and prays. . . . (Dear God, all I ask is a crumb of bread and a drop of water!) . . . A smile breaks across his face which gradually changes form and ends as a frown. A vision of steaks and malts immediately vanishes. This wrestler knows that he can eat no lunch and that he must work hard in practice.

In the time from 8:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M., he must walk the halls and attend classes on an empty stomach. During passing period, one can always point out a wrestler; he is the slow moving one who looks as though he is in a trance.

Well, 3:30 comes and goes, and the wrestler dutifully heads for the locker room. His practicing gear consists of a rubber sweatwuit, a sweatshirt, and sweatshirt with a hood, wrestling pants, sweat socks, and gym shoes. Then with a sigh the wrestler enters the wrestling room. He is immediately surrounded by 90 degree weather and the smell of sweat. Two hours later, he crawls out of the heat with only enough energy to produce a small smile denoting success. He has finally reached the desired weight!

There are many benefits. Two of this year's wrestlers made it to state competition. Mike Navarro and Joe Fitzpatrick had a great year including wrestling in state competition. Mike Navarro placed second in state.

SWIMMING

Five minutes! Everyone down to the "Torture Chamber." Up, down, up, down, lift those weights and build up that power. Move those arms and strettittch. Upstairs now and into the pool. What's the work-out schedule for today? 2 x 1650 @ 30 minutes, rest 1 minute, 30 x 100 @ 1:30 minutes, kick-pull-swim 6 x 100 @ 6:00 minutes. "Oh-no!! You've gotta be kidding." "I've gotta cold" "My ear hurts." "I'll vomit." "Swim it off, carp!" Two and a half hours later and all done - finally. Everyone out of the pool and into the boiling locker room. Eyes red, bodies purple and exhausted, but spirits high. The result of this practice, dedication, and hard work was second in conference, third in district, and five men down to state
